Objective of the event:	Donation has always remained a great act for humans Donation of something to someone is first of all a great thing and renders a lot of patience and strong will power. In underdeveloped countries where poverty is a significant issue, people should learn the art of donation and its benefits for the country. Whether it is the donation of the thousands of people for the people facing the attacks of nature and accidental events or the various donations coming towards the various helpless and orphaned people, everywhere the keyword remains the donation.  Donation can be of anything. It can be clothes, money, food, or anything by which an individual can help another individual in need.

among us, by this we got to know how to make decisions and coordinate with team members.  Also, it is important to communicate to people about their preferences and give them what we must satisfy their needs. In old age homes, we got the opportunity to interact with them and helping them to find what they need and want to choose from the availability of clothes. This way our communication skill improved how to talk and treat elderly people who are far away from their homes.  Most importantly everyone got to know the value of food and not to waste it, instead give to someone who have been starving and be grateful for what we have and thankful for our parents
